Date of manufacture: 19th Century

Description

A delightful 19th century English country pine side table of simple, timeless form. Handcrafted in solid pine with traditional mortise-and-tenon pegged joinery and raised on elegant square tapering legs, the table retains a beautifully mellow honey-coloured pine patina, developed through years of use. The single piece rectangular top sits above a single full-width drawer with the original brass swan-neck handles. Displaying the honest character expected of antique country furniture, the table has plenty of age-related marks and wear that enhance its authentic appeal. Its versatile size makes it equally suited as a side table, hallway console or compact writing desk. A practical and decorative antique that will compliment both traditional and contemporary interiors. Width 75cm Depth 43cm Height 71cm
