Description

A striking vintage Kutchinsky ring that perfectly captures the bold glamour and exceptional craftsmanship for which this iconic London jeweller became renowned during the 1970s. Celebrated for creating distinctive, luxurious designs in limited numbers, Kutchinsky pieces remain highly sought after by collectors and jewellery enthusiasts alike. Expertly crafted in rich 18ct yellow gold, this elegant statement ring features two dazzling clusters of brilliant cut diamonds, beautifully framed by polished natural black onyx panels. The dramatic contrast between the sparkling diamonds, glossy black onyx and warm yellow gold creates a sophisticated and timeless design that is as wearable today as it was when first created. The ring bears the prestigious Kutchinsky maker's mark and London hallmarks. Although the date letter is no longer legible due to a historical resize, the piece is believed to date from around 1975. Professionally cleaned and polished, this exceptional vintage ring is presented in excellent condition and would make a wonderful addition to any fine jewellery collection, as well as a unique and elegant gift.
