Description

This vintage 18ct gold trilogy ring holds three bright old-cut diamonds, each neatly claw set in platinum. The trio sits in a fine line across the finger, drawing the light beautifully through each stone while creating a lovely sense of balance and proportion. With its gentle curves and slim golden shank, this piece has a quiet charm typical of early to mid 20th-century craftsmanship. The diamonds display fine brilliance and are perfectly complemented by the soft warmth of the gold. Part of our antique diamond ring collection.
