Description

Fantastic pair of walnut open armchairs, each with a well-proportioned back featuring shapely splats and curved top. The shepherd's crook-style arms flow gracefully from the uprights, framing the seat with elegance and poise. Standing on carved cabriole forelegs with padded feet and splay legs to the rear, they balance decorative charm with practical stability. Upholstered in a classic floral tapestry that is clean and well-maintained, the seats could be easily reupholstered to suit any interior scheme. As with all antiques, there are minor imperfections, but the chairs remain solid and sound, with warm tones that enhance the walnut's rich grain. Elegant yet inviting, they would sit beautifully in a drawing room, study, or alongside a period desk. Seat height = 47cm (18.5") Internal reference : SAI3809
