Description

A truly exquisite antique 15ct yellow gold Art Nouveau pendant necklace, dating to circa 1900, beautifully handcrafted with flowing, organic lines inspired by nature. Delicate vine motifs, graceful curves and floral detailing create an elegant openwork design that perfectly captures the artistry of the Edwardian era. The pendant is set with natural aquamarines in soft sea-blue tones, including a striking central oval stone, sparkling round accents and an elegant pear-shaped drop that sways gently beneath the pendant. The gemstones are beautifully finished with fine millgrain settings, while clusters of luminous seed pearls add softness and refinement throughout the design. Suspended from its original 15ct gold chain, this exceptional piece is offered complete with its original fitted presentation box, adding to its rarity, provenance and collector appeal. Professionally cleaned and carefully inspected, the necklace remains in excellent antique condition, making it a wonderful addition to any antique jewellery collection or a truly special gift for someone who appreciates period craftsmanship.
