Description

Clockwise is delighted to present for your consideration a stunning London drop-dial fusee wall clock from the famous and important maker James Murray of Royal Exchange London. Clocks of this quality don't come along often and this would make an ideal addition, or start, to a curated collection. The recently overhauled and cleaned eight day duration fusee timepiece movement has an anchor recoil escapement and benefits from my three year warranty. This impressive clock comes complete with its original pendulum. The twelve inch painted dial is in lovely condition and adorned with the maker's details 'James Murray, Royal Exchange, London'. Cleaned to a high standard the dial is complimented by original hands beneath the original cast brass bezel and convex glass. The case is of pleasing proportions being a standard two-piece design with the narrow surround, typical of the period, attaching to the back box via four wooden pegs. Adorned with grape ears the flame mahogany veneered trunk has boxwood inlay to the pendulum viewing window area and the lower curved area houses the pendulum adjustment door which opens courtesy of a silk pull. The viewing window with brass frame c...
