Description

19th Century English Pine Corner Cupboard — Two Part Form A handsome 19th century English corner cupboard in stripped pine, dry to the touch, with bevelled glass doors above and solid panelled doors below — practical, architectural, and full of character. Full Description A fine 19th century English corner cupboard in two sections for ease of transport. The upper section features bevelled glass doors enclosing three fixed shelves, while the lower section offers enclosed storage behind solid pine doors with one fixed shelf. The cupboard retains its original stripped pine finish — dry to the touch and naturally aged — displaying a warm, honest surface with time worn marks and gentle variations in tone. Its clean lines, moulded cornice, and scalloped base lend quiet architectural presence, making it equally suited to kitchen, dining, or hallway settings. A practical and decorative piece of English country furniture, combining utility with understated charm. Details Period: 19th century Origin: England Material: Stripped pine Form: Two part corner cupboard Dimensions: H 221 cm | W 124 cm | D 64 cm Condition: Good antique condition with age related wear and time worn ma...
