Description

This is a magnificent spindle-bag made by Yomut Turkmen during the last quarter 19th century in the trans-Caspian steppes, Turkmenistan. The bag which comprises vertical rows of small 'guls' or tribal crests in knotted-pile on the face, is complete with plain-weave back and braided cords attached to the sides and base which were originally used for hanging the bag on the camels and inside the yurts. Size: 57 x 32cm (1' 11" x 1' 1").

Internal Ref: BM/B3
