Description

Description A very fine large Victorian glass wine decanter dating to circa 1880. It retains its original mushroom-cut stopper and features three applied facet-cut neck rings. The shoulders are decorated with elegant flute cutting, leading down to a broad field of large diamond cutting. The base is finished with a finely executed star cut. Generously proportioned, the decanter will hold approximately one and a half bottles of wine, making it both a practical and impressive table piece. Date & Origin England, c1880, Period of Queen Victoria Condition Excellent. No chips, cracks or restoration. Clean and clear internally. Dimensions Height : 26.5cm (which includes stopper) Diameter : 12 cm.
