Description

DESCRIPTION A handsome pair of late nineteenth-century French walnut chairs in the Louis XIV style. Each chair has a high rectangular back and upholstered seat, covered in a later tapestry fabric woven with broad leaves and berries in soft natural tones. The walnut frames stand on characteristic os de mouton (mutton bone) legs, united by shaped and scrolled stretchers, reflecting the bold Baroque forms associated with seventeenth-century French furniture. The warm walnut colour contrasts attractively with the tapestry upholstery.. Comfortable and decorative, these versatile chairs would work well as occasional seating, hall chairs or bedroom chairs.

DIMENSIONS Height: 115cm Width: 56cm Depth: 70cm CONDITION The chairs are in good, solid condition and present well overall. There are minor marks, knocks and scratches consistent with their age and use. The walnut frames are structurally sound, and the later tapestry upholstery is clean and in good order with only light signs of use. Overall, these are an attractive and well-preserved pair of French chairs ready for use. As with all antique and vintage furniture, this piece has been used and enjoyed over many years and shou...
