Description

An original watercolour by impressionist artist Eva Savory (1882-1938) in the original Oriental style frame c.1900. The still life watercolour study depicting a vase of mixed flowers including chrysanthemum's and daisies with foliage sat in a simple vase. The flowers in soft tones set against a striking black background, signed by the artist to the bottom right. The painting sat behind the original glass in the original timber frame with silver gilt and ebonised finish in the Oriental style. The rear of the painting displaying the artists label, gallery label, along with the name of the original titled owner. Presented in excellent original condition.
