Description

A very attractive hand painted porcelain plaque of oval form by the well known Royal Worcester artist James Stinton, depicting a pair of pheasants standing amongst grasses within a softly painted landscape, with trees and misty ground beyond. The birds are rendered in rich naturalistic colours with finely detailed plumage, the surrounding foliage and ground painted in warm autumnal tones creating a pleasing sense of depth and atmosphere. Signed J. Stinton to the lower edge of the plaque and mounted within an oval gilt slip, the whole presented in a decorative moulded gilt frame with scrolling ornament to the corners and centre. The reverse bearing the Royal Worcester factory mark. A charming example of Stinton's much admired game bird studies, beautifully painted and well presented for display.
