Description

V.Large Oil Portrait Painting Wife of Major-General Sir Stanley Clarke 2of2 Brief Description: This is a huge, magnificent and original 19th-century Oil on Canvas Portrait Painting depicting the wife of Major-General Sir Stanley de Astel Calvert Clarke, GCVO, CMG (1837 - 1911). Note: We are also selling the companion painting which depicts the Army officer, Major-General Clarke - please see our other listings. The huge, magnificent work was painted in the last quarter of the 19th century by Sir Gerald Festus Kelly KCVO PRA (1879 - 1972). It is an extremely lifelike image that portrays Mrs Clarke in a standing three-quarter length pose, with her hands clasped together holding a pair of metal-framed spectacles. She is depicted sporting grey hair, and wearing a white lace veil/headaddress and a deep red or orange dress. The work is mounted within its original, huge and impressive giltwood and gesso moulded frame that is embellished with vine and leaves. Signed in the lower left corner, Kelly. Mary Temple Rose was the daughter of Rt. Hon. Sir John Rose, 1st Bt. and Charlotte Temple. She married Maj.-Gen. Sir Stanley de Astel Calvert Clarke, son of Colonel John Frederic...
