Description

A magnificent antique Victorian carved mahogany display cabinet dating from circa 1890, combining exceptional craftsmanship with striking architectural presence. Beautifully constructed from richly figured mahogany, this impressive cabinet showcases the exuberant artistry of the late Victorian period, making it an outstanding statement piece for both traditional and contemporary interiors. The elegant central glazed door is beautifully decorated with flowing pierced carvings inspired by the Art Nouveau movement, whilst the original mirrored side panels create wonderful depth and reflect light throughout the cabinet. The pair of deeply carved cupboard doors feature superb foliate and floral decoration executed in exceptionally crisp relief, demonstrating the quality of craftsmanship throughout. Inside, the cabinet retains its original velvet-lined shelves, providing a luxurious setting for displaying fine porcelain, silver, glassware or treasured collections. The flanking cupboards offer practical concealed storage, making the cabinet as functional as it is decorative. Raised on elegant cabriole front legs with finely shaped supports and retaining its attractive gilt bra...
