Description

Early C19th George IV period mahogany serving table of imposing scale and bold design, probably Irish . Raised on impressive shapely cabriole-type forelegs with carved claw feet , 'gaitered' moulding to the lower section, acanthus leaf carved knees with an unusual turned 'beehive' style paterae above . The frieze fitted with two 'blind' drawers with a beaded moulding running below . The inverted breakfront outline top supported on a heavily moulded section, having a broad border of mahogany cross-banding and fitted with a low upstand to the back with a decorative central classically-inspired leaf and scroll-carved mount and a moulded surround . The rear supports of tapering square section with reeded detailing. In excellent original condition with a rich colour and patina. Minor historic marks and wear to the top commensurate with age , use and purpose. A highly decorative table of good large-scale 'country-house' proportions to provide functionality and visual impact to an interior. The height of the table providing excellent height for serving and display, whilst offering ample space below to perhaps house a wine-cooler, or cellolette . H 38" (50" full) W 72" D ...
