Description

Antique 19th century pair of William IV armchairs in mahogany, an elegant and increasingly scarce matching pair, exceptionally well made and of fine quality. Showcasing the refined styling of the William IV period, these chairs combine graceful proportions with outstanding craftsmanship. Each armchair is upholstered in an attractive yellow fabric, offering both comfort and a striking contrast against the rich mahogany frames. They stand on their original reeded legs fitted with brass castors, allowing them to be moved with ease while retaining their authentic period features. The frames remain solid and sturdy, reflecting the quality of their construction. The mahogany displays a beautiful depth of colour with attractive natural grain throughout, enhancing the elegant lines of the chairs. Their timeless design, original details and well-balanced proportions make this a highly desirable and increasingly rare pair that would complement both period and contemporary interiors. Presented in good condition, these superb William IV armchairs are a rare find, offering an excellent combination of comfort, craftsmanship and historical charm. Whether placed in a drawing room, stud...
