Description

Landscape Watercolour Painting Near Chinnor, Bucks, By George Oyston (1861-1937) Brief Description: This is a delightful original English countryside watercolour painting dating from the 1920s. Entitled: Near Chinnor, Bucks (Buckinghamshire). Painted by the listed British artist George Oyston (1861-1937), the work beautifully captures the tranquillity of the Buckinghamshire countryside in the height of summer. A gently flowing river meanders through the foreground, where a small flock of ducks drifts peacefully upon the water. Towering mature trees frame the scene, while rolling hills stretch into the distance beneath an expansive summer sky, creating a wonderful sense of depth and serenity. Executed with Oyston's characteristic sensitivity to light and atmosphere, the painting evokes the timeless charm of the English rural landscape. The work is signed in the lower right corner, 'George Oyston', and is presented in its original glazed gilt moulded frame. Artist Biography: George Oyston (1861-1937) was born in North Shields. The son of an engineer, he painted in both oil and watercolour and specialised in landscapes, river scenes and genre subjects. It is recorded...
