Description

DESCRIPTION A handsome 17th-century joined oak coffer of attractive proportions, richly carved with a traditional lunette frieze above a pair of foliate arcaded panels divided by a central muntin. The rectangular single-plank hinged lid opens to reveal a spacious interior with a lock and working key. The front is finely decorated with deeply carved foliate panels framed beneath a continuous lunette-carved frieze, while the panelled sides and sturdy stile feet demonstrate the robust craftsmanship associated with English country furniture of the seventeenth century. Constructed in solid oak throughout, the coffer displays a wonderful deep colour and well-developed patina acquired over centuries of use. Its generous size makes it equally suited for use as a traditional blanket chest, or as a statement piece in a hallway or period interior. Retaining excellent period character and attractive original carving, this is an honest example of seventeenth-century English furniture with practical storage and considerable decorative appeal. DIMENSIONS Height: 67 cm Width: 125 cm Depth: 58 cm CONDITION Presented in good, honest antique condition consistent with over three centuries ...
