Description

A fine Georgian mahogany linen press, crafted in beautifully figured flame mahogany and displaying elegant proportions throughout. Raised upon traditional bracket feet, this handsome piece features an unusual and practical arrangement of four oak-lined drawers, configured as two over two, with the upper pair of drawers being of double depth, almost certainly intended for the storage of hats or other larger garments. Above, the pair of doors are beautifully veneered with richly figured flame mahogany panels, enclosed within a well-proportioned frame and surmounted by an attractive multi-moulded cornice incorporating finely executed dentil mouldings, adding architectural interest to the overall design. The interior has been fitted with a hanging rail, making the press ideally suited for modern-day storage while retaining its period character. Presented in good condition, this elegant Georgian linen press is both highly decorative and exceptionally practical, making it a superb addition to any period or contemporary interior. Size: Height 79" (201cm) Width 50" (127cm) Depth 24" (61cm)
