Description

A set of ten 18th century manganese delft tiles depicting various scenes. The tiles are in relatively good order with some having breaks cracks and chips commensurate with age. Both lots have been set in oak frames at some stage with the smaller set of four having part of the frame missing, however this could be easily fixed if you wish. The would look fantastic used as a splash back for a bathroom sink in a period home. Each tile measures - height 13.5cm x width 13.5cm x depth 1cm .
