Description

Original Double Portrait Watercolour Painting 19th-Century Antique Caricature Brief Description: This is a beautiful, original 19th-century double-portrait watercolour and charcoal painting depicting two distinguished gentlemen, one of whom is identified as a Captain, whilst the other is believed to be a Doctor. Beautifully observed and full of character, the work captures the contrasting stature and personalities of the two figures with remarkable charm and delicate attention to detail. The painting is inscribed lower left, lower centre, and lower right, adding further interest and authenticity to this delightful Victorian study. It is attractively mounted and presented within a superb quality (later) glazed burr walnut-effect frame, which retains the original Bahrain framer's label verso. A highly decorative and engaging 19th-century work, this charming portrait study would make a wonderful addition to any collection of Victorian watercolours, portraiture, or period decorative art. Attributes: Watercolour and charcoal Signed. Circa: 1850-1880 Condition: Both the painting and the frame are offered in an overall exceptional original condition commensurate wit...
