Description

Antique 20th century Edwardian fitted cupboard in oak, a beautifully crafted piece of furniture, exceptionally well made and of fine quality. Combining elegant Edwardian styling with practical storage, this cupboard is full of character and showcases the high standard of cabinet making from the period. The cupboard is finished with an attractive raised gallery to the top and features a pair of doors opening to reveal a beautifully fitted interior, thoughtfully arranged to provide practical and organised storage. Standing on sturdy square legs, its clean lines and balanced proportions give it a timeless and versatile appearance. The oak displays breathtaking figuring with a rich, warm colour and striking natural grain throughout, making this a particularly eye-catching example. The quality of the timber, together with the superb craftsmanship and elegant design, makes it a highly desirable piece that will suit a variety of interiors. Presented in good condition, this handsome Edwardian fitted cupboard is both decorative and functional. A wonderful example of quality antique furniture, it would make a superb addition to a dining room, study, hallway or living space and is...
