Description

A charming late 18th century creamware pottery hot water jug and cover by Wedgwood, of plain baluster form with nice details including a stepped foot and bifurcated ribbed handle with decorative moulded leaf terminals. The incurved cover with globular knob and incised ring around the edge. The jug impressed WEDGWOOD, c.1780. It measures 16.5cm (6 1/2") high and 12.8cm (5") spout to handle and 9cm (3") across the belly. In very good condition with no damage, repair or restoration to the jug. The cover has three small shallow chips to the underside edge. No repair or restoration. Minimal handling wear.
