Description

Antique 19th century Victorian bobbin turned sideboard in oak, an outstanding example of period craftsmanship, exceptionally well made and of fine quality. Rich in character and decorative detail, this impressive sideboard features a raised gallery to the top, adding both elegance and practicality. The layout comprises two central drawers above a pair of spacious cupboards, each enclosing a full-width internal shelf, providing generous storage for dining or household essentials. The piece retains all of its original handles and fittings and comes complete with its original key, further enhancing its authenticity and appeal. One of the most striking features is the beautifully carved decoration throughout, complemented by magnificent bobbin turned legs united by a sturdy supporting stretcher. The oak displays a wonderfully rich patina with gorgeous grain and colour throughout, giving the sideboard exceptional warmth and presence. Its distinctive design and superb quality make it a particularly desirable and increasingly hard-to-find example. Presented in good condition, this remarkable Victorian sideboard is a rare find, combining outstanding craftsmanship with everyday pr...
