Description

Antique 18th century fine quality Georgian side table in oak, an outstanding example of early craftsmanship, exceptionally well made and of the finest quality. Elegant in both form and proportion, this beautiful table displays the refined styling and attention to detail that define the Georgian period. The table features a practical single drawer to the front, retaining its original brass handle's. Standing on graceful cabriole legs with finely carved knees and elegant pad feet, every detail has been thoughtfully executed to create a piece of remarkable quality and charm. Displaying gorgeous grain and rich colour throughout, the timber has developed a wonderful depth and character over the years. The flowing shape, decorative inlay and beautifully balanced proportions make this a particularly attractive and highly desirable example. It is a piece that truly has to be seen in person to be fully appreciated. Presented in good condition, this exceptional Georgian side table is both practical and highly decorative. A superb example of 18th century furniture, it would make a distinguished addition to a hallway, drawing room, study or living space and is certain to be admired ...
