Description

Vintage 20th century glazed display cabinet in oak, an impressive and exceptionally practical piece, very well made and of good quality. Designed to offer an abundance of display and storage space, this substantial cabinet would make a striking addition to a dining room, living room, shop or showroom. The glazed upper section houses nine adjustable glass shelves, providing superb flexibility for displaying china, glassware, collectables or antiques. Beneath are three useful drawers, all retaining their original handles, while the lower section incorporates three cupboards, each fitted with a single internal shelf for generous concealed storage. The cabinet also comes complete with its original key. Crafted from beautifully figured oak, the timber displays a rich, warm colour and attractive natural grain throughout. Its well-balanced proportions, quality construction and versatile layout make it a highly desirable example. For added convenience, the cabinet separates into two sections, allowing for much easier transportation and installation. Presented in good condition, this handsome oak display cabinet combines elegant styling with exceptional functionality. Offering ex...
