Description

Here we have an elegant and rare Art Deco stool by Heal's of London, crafted in solid oak with a luxurious fine Italian calf suede upholstered seat. Dating from the 1920s–1930s, this beautifully proportioned piece exemplifies the understated craftsmanship and timeless design for which Heal's became renowned. Adding exceptional historical interest, the stool comes from the estate of Ella Annesley Voysey, family member of the celebrated Arts & Crafts architect and designer Charles Francis Annesley Voysey. Furniture with direct Voysey family provenance is highly sought after and significantly enhances the collectability of this piece. Details: Maker: Heal's of London Period: Art Deco, circa 1925–1935 Materials: Solid oak with fine Italian calf suede upholstery Condition: Very good vintage condition Provenance: From the estate of Ella Annesley Voysey This versatile stool is equally suited as a dressing stool, occasional seat, or accent piece, combining refined British Art Deco design with outstanding provenance.
