Description

Antique set of eight outstanding quality Victorian mahogany shield back Hepplewhite style dining chairs, comprising six single chairs and two carver armchairs, retaining their beautifully aged original tan leather seats. A superbly crafted English set dating to around 1890, combining elegant design with exceptional craftsmanship. Inspired by the celebrated designs of George Hepplewhite, each chair features a graceful shield-shaped back with finely moulded and pierced splats, richly carved lower splat details and elegant serpentine crest rails. The matching carver chairs are particularly impressive, with beautifully shaped swept arms terminating in carved scroll handrests, adding both comfort and distinction. Raised on finely reeded square tapering legs united by stretchers, every chair displays crisp detailing and refined proportions. This is an exceptional dining set, offering the perfect combination of elegance, comfort and practicality. The original tan leather seats have developed a wonderful patina over more than 130 years, complementing the rich colour and grain of the mahogany beautifully. Ideal for both traditional and contemporary interiors, the two matching carv...
