Description

A striking pair of 19th-century architectural columns, expertly turned from solid, structural hardwood. The structurally robust salvaged duo are exceptionally well-suited for a grand interior installation, high-end architectural renovation, or a commanding statement entryway display. The columns feature a classic neoclassical hand-turned profile, boasting a swelling centre, balanced by precision ring-turned necking and crisp collar details. They are supported by heavy, robust square block sections at both ends, beautifully showcasing layers of early historical painted patina with a genuinely weathered, distressed teal finish. They present beautifully as a design element, showcasing the pinnacle of 19th-century structural craftsmanship, architectural salvage appeal, and rustic texture. Measurements: * Height - 246cm, 238.5cm * Depth - 22cm * Width - 17cm
