Description

Antique 20th century fine quality oak bureau, a beautifully crafted piece that offers a wonderful balance of elegance and practicality. Very well made and of good quality, this bureau displays excellent craftsmanship throughout and is perfectly suited to a study, living room or hallway. The fall-front opens to reveal a neatly fitted interior, thoughtfully arranged to provide a practical writing area with useful compartments for organising letters and stationery. The bureau retains its original key, while below are two spacious drawers, each fitted with their original oak knob handles, providing additional storage for everyday essentials. Raised on elegantly turned legs united by a sturdy supporting stretcher, the bureau has a graceful yet robust appearance. The carved detailing adds subtle decoration, complementing the gorgeous grain and rich, warm colour of the oak, which has matured beautifully over time. Every aspect of the piece reflects the quality of its construction and timeless design. Presented in good condition, this highly desirable bureau is both decorative and functional. A fine example of 20th century oak furniture, it would make a charming and practical ad...
