Description

Antique 20th century industrial style iron side table, a wonderfully characterful and unique piece that perfectly blends vintage industrial design with everyday practicality. Very well made and of good quality, it has been thoughtfully created using an original Jones sewing machine base, giving it an abundance of authentic period charm. The table features a beautifully cast iron base, showcasing the decorative detailing and robust engineering for which Jones sewing machines were renowned. Topped with a handsome wooden surface, it provides a practical space for use as a side table, lamp table or occasional table while retaining its distinctive industrial character. The contrast between the rich timber top and the aged iron base creates a striking appearance, making this a true statement piece. Full of personality and craftsmanship, it celebrates the beauty of repurposed antique materials while offering a versatile piece of furniture that will complement both industrial and traditional interiors. Presented in good condition, this is a gorgeous example of industrial style furniture with plenty of originality and appeal. A highly decorative and functional piece, it would mak...
