Description

Wonderful Regency Antique Painted Linen Press — Early 19th Century. A beautifully restored Regency antique painted linen press, circa early 19th century. Sourced from a private estate near the mole valley in Devon and brought to back Sussex, where it has been thoughtfully transformed into a truly one-of-a-kind statement piece. This exceptional linen press blends historic charm with contemporary artistic flair, making it the perfect addition to both modern interiors and character-filled period homes. Crafted from solid timber and maintained in good condition, this linen press features a practical and elegant layout: – Four sliding internal drawers in the upper cupboard, ideal for linens and textiles – Four deep, spacious lower drawers, offering generous storage – A detachable cornice and upper cabinet, allowing for easy transport and installation. Artistically refinished by hand, the exterior has been finished in layered tones of Annie Sloan Old White, Freda Blue, and Provence Turquoise, creating depth, texture, and a beautifully aged patina reminiscent of French country antiques. The interior is painted in a vibrant turquoise, adding an unexpected pop of colour and cha...
