Description

French Louis XVI Style Painted & Canework Day Bed - Canapé Corbeille 20th Century | Sourced in the South of France An exquisite 20th-century French Louis XVI style day bed, featuring elegant caned panelling and a softly distressed, painted finish in a subtle sea-green / celadon hue. Crafted with sweeping, curved sides (corbeille style) and classic Neoclassical detailing, the carved frame is adorned with ribbon-twist moulding, floral rosette blocks, and central acanthus leaf carving along the top rail. The piece stands on six spiralled / stop-fluted turned supports, providing exceptional structure and authentic visual weight. Provenance & Romance Discovered nestled in an estate near the sun-drenched coast of the South of France, this piece embodies the effortless elegance of traditional Provencal living. Crafted in around Circa 1910 in homage to 18th-century royal French furniture design, it served as a peaceful lounging piece in a sunlit bastide, capturing the breezy, timeless warmth of the French countryside. Key Features & Details Frame: Carved wood in a gently distressed French-green painted finish with soft grey-blue undertones. Panelling: Natural woven cane...
