Description

An elegant early 20th-century oval brass dressing mirror, featuring a beautifully crafted oval frame enriched with a finely cast laurel-and-berry border and raised on its cast iron black four-legged stand. The finely proportioned brass frame displays a touch of classical detailing, with the decorative laurel moulding adding a subtle styling while preserving the mirror's clean silhouette. Designed as a dressing or vanity mirror, it retains its original swivel mechanism, allowing the mirror to be adjusted to the desired angle for practical everyday use. The mirror is supported on a black four-legged stand, while the brass column is a later replacement. The combination of the warm aged brass, oval form and sculptural base creates a piece that sits comfortably within both traditional and contemporary interiors. H: 97 W: 46.5 D: 22 cm
