Description

Antique 19th century Queen Anne style display cabinet in walnut, an exceptional piece of furniture displaying outstanding craftsmanship and remarkable attention to detail. Very well made and of the finest quality, this magnificent cabinet combines elegant display space with generous storage, creating an impressive focal point for any period or traditional interior. It is a breathtaking example that truly has to be seen in person to appreciate the beauty of its design and workmanship. The upper section is arranged with three beautifully glazed display cabinets, each fitted with a single internal shelf, providing the perfect setting for fine china, glassware or treasured collections. Below are two useful central drawers, while the base features a spacious double-door blind cupboard flanked by two glazed cabinets, offering a superb balance of concealed storage and display space. The cabinet retains all of its original handles and fittings and separates neatly into two sections for ease of transport and installation. Raised on elegant cabriole legs terminating in beautifully carved claw and ball feet, the cabinet is richly detailed throughout. The walnut displays stunning n...
