Description

DESCRIPTION An attractive George III mahogany serpentine toilet or dressing mirror, dating from around 1800, with elegant proportions and a particularly pleasing aged mirror plate. The rectangular adjustable mirror plate is contained within a mahogany frame with gilt slip and supported between tapering uprights surmounted by brass finials. Below is a serpentine-fronted base fitted with three small drawers and raised on shaped bracket feet. The central drawer retains a lock with working key. A retailer's label for Trollope & Colls Ltd, Belgrave Square, London (c.1920–1930) is attached to the underside, providing an interesting element of its later history. A charming and useful Georgian dressing mirror, combining elegant serpentine form with a wonderfully atmospheric aged plate.

DIMENSIONS Height: 64 cm Width: 43 cm Depth: 21 cm

CONDITION The mirror is in good, solid condition with an attractive colour and patina. The drawers run freely, the central lock has a working key, and the side adjustment screws hold the mirror securely in position. There are light marks, knocks and wear commensurate with age and use, together with some minor historic losses and repairs to the ve...
