Description

Antique 20th century Edwardian cabinet in mahogany, a handsome and highly practical piece that offers generous storage within an elegant period design. Very well made and of good quality, this attractive cabinet has a distinctive deep profile, making it ideal for storing a wide range of household items while retaining the refined styling associated with the Edwardian period. The cabinet is fitted with two doors to the front, opening to reveal multiple internal shelves that provide excellent storage and organisation. Its unusually deep design offers a greater capacity than many cabinets of this type, making it a particularly versatile piece for use in a dining room, study, hallway or living space. The mahogany displays gorgeous natural grain and a rich, warm colour throughout, giving the cabinet plenty of character and visual appeal. The pleasing proportions, quality construction and generous interior make this a particularly desirable example, combining practicality with timeless elegance. Presented in very good condition, this Edwardian mahogany cabinet is both decorative and functional. A fine example of early 20th century furniture, it offers superb storage while com...
