Description

A beautiful and elegant antique Edwardian mahogany single bed frame, dating from approximately 1900–1915. The bed features a particularly attractive headboard and footboard with gently curved top rails, slender vertical spindles and decorative central panels with delicate inlaid detailing. The warm mahogany has developed a rich colour and attractive patina, giving the bed considerable period character. The elegant proportions and restrained decoration are typical of the Edwardian period, when furniture became lighter and more refined than many Victorian designs. Both the headboard and footboard stand on their original-style castors, while the bed is joined by sturdy metal side rails. A particularly attractive antique bed which would work beautifully in a traditional bedroom, guest room, cottage or period property. Dimensions Overall length: 201 cm Overall width: 106 cm Headboard height: 122 cm Footboard height: 84 cm Suitable mattress length: approximately 190 cm Mattress size: approximately 90 × 190 cm / UK Single. The frame is in very good antique condition, solid and sturdy, with age-related marks, small scratches and variations in colour consistent with its age ...
