Description

A late 19th century walnut occasional table, the top with a thumb-moulded edge and incised border enclosing a relief-carved panel set on a hand-punched ground, over a frieze with horizontal incised channels, all raised on four slender turned legs united by a H-stretcher featuring a relief-carved monogram cipher platform. The hand-punched stippling, incised detailing and bespoke carved cipher all reflect the Aesthetic Movement taste of the period. Very good antique condition, with minor surface wear and a fine patina consistent with age. Structurally sound, clean, and ready to place. English, circa 1890.
