Description

This classic 9ct rose gold daisy band ring radiates timeless warmth and understated elegance. With its distinctive patterned design of stars and foliage motifs and generous 6mm width, it makes a beautiful choice for everyday wear or as a meaningful antique wedding band. What makes this ring particularly special is its rare Chester hallmark, dating it to 1903. The Chester Assay Office closed in 1962, making surviving Chester hallmarked jewellery increasingly sought after and adding an appealing collector's detail to this characterful piece.

Professionally cleaned and polished in our workshop, this antique treasure is presented in excellent condition and is ready to be worn, loved and cherished once again. A rare hallmark, classic design and more than 120 years of history make this ring more than a piece of jewellery, it is a beautiful piece of heritage.
