Description

19th Century Italianate Watercolour – Signed J.L., Dated 1877 A finely painted 19th-century watercolour depicting a traditional stone bridge in a southern European setting, with figures crossing and an unusual projecting structure over the central pier. The surrounding hillside town includes shuttered façades, arched colonnades, and a distant bell tower, all characteristic of Italianate architecture. Signed with the monogram J.L. and dated May 1877 to the lower right. Likely the work of a travelling artist drawing on real and imagined elements of the Italian landscape, in the Romantic tradition of the Grand Tour. Set behind glass in a later narrow gilt frame. Date: 1877 Medium: Watercolour on paper Signature: Monogrammed J.L. lower right Frame size: 56.5 x 39 cm Condition: Good antique condition. Some light surface waviness to the paper but no tears or damage visible. Frame sound and ready to hang.
