Description

No 11247 George II period figured and burr walnut lowboy, the rectangular canted top with a double crossbanded quarter veneered burr central panel and moulded edge, fitted with an assortment of five cock-beaded drawers with original pierced brass handle plates, over a shaped apron, raised on cabriole supports with pad feet. The piece has black and white line inlay to the top and all the drawers. Circa 1730 £3,250. Height: 26 ¾", (68cm) Width: 29 ½", (75cm) Depth: 17 ¾", (45cm) Note: The piece has a hand-written label taped on the inside of the centre drawer which reads: "This dressing table belongs to Paul, I see his receipt for £250. For the money he paid me on 11/1/70. It was sold on the understanding that it remains at The Lodge until my & Eileen's death. 12/1/70". When this was made, such tables were "occasional tables" or "dressing tables". The latter was to prevent ointments, powders and cosmetics from staining the valuable carpets.
