Description

A Large Victorian Pine Farmhouse Table of unusual design, possibly Irish. The well proportioned top has a warm natural finish, a simple apron and decorative carved supports beneath. A single drawer to one end providing useful storage. Standing on sturdy square legs. This table will bring understated country charm to both traditional and contemporary kitchens and will seat 6-8 comfortably, with the overhang on either side being 25 cm. In original condition with age related signs of wear etc., with two legs having been tipped a long time ago. "Tipping" was a common practice, old floors were damp, scrubbed with water, or prone to flooding. The bottom inches of wooden legs rotted away long before the rest of the table, requiring a carpenter to cut off the damaged wood and graft on a fresh "tip" Length 242 cm Width 117 cm Height 79 cm Height to apron 59 cm
