Description

A beautiful and characterful late Victorian upholstered tub chair, dating to approximately 1890. The chair has a wonderfully distinctive low, curved form, with the upholstered back sweeping continuously around into the arms. The dark polished hardwood frame features an attractive open-back construction with shaped supports, turned front legs and original-style castors, giving the piece an elegant yet substantial appearance. The chair is upholstered in a traditional green and gold checked fabric, finished with decorative braided trim around the edges. The combination of the rich dark timber and soft green upholstery gives it a particularly attractive period look. Its generously proportioned seat and wrap-around back make this both a decorative and practical piece of antique furniture. It would work beautifully as an occasional chair, bedroom chair, fireside chair or statement armchair in a traditional or eclectic interior. Seat height: 35 cm. The chair is presented in very good antique condition, remaining solid and displaying beautifully. As expected with a genuine piece of this age, there are minor marks, variations in finish and signs of previous use which form part ...
