Description

A Regency mahogany pedestal sideboard, dating to circa 1820, of particularly pleasing colour and figure. The shaped top is surmounted by a low panelled gallery and arranged above three frieze drawers, the outer drawers following the bowed form of the pedestals. The drawer fronts and cupboard doors display well-figured mahogany, enhanced by contrasting dark moulded borders. The two bow-fronted pedestal cupboards are raised on short splayed feet and retain their brass knob handles. The left-hand cupboard is fitted with a shelf, whilst the right incorporates a cellaret drawer with brass carrying handle, with useful storage beneath. A good-quality and attractive Regency sideboard, combining elegant proportions with generous storage and displaying a particularly warm, well-figured mahogany throughout. English, circa 1820.
