Description

Thomas Smythe Hunting Charge Large Victorian Sporting Oil Painting Thomas Smythe (1825-1906) An impressive large Victorian sporting oil painting entitled Hunting Charge, depicting a dramatic mounted hunting scene across open English countryside. Signed T Smythe lower left. The composition centres upon a huntsman in a vivid red riding coat and white breeches, mounted upon a striking grey horse shown at full gallop. Immediately behind him follows a second gentleman in a dark riding coat and tall black top hat, mounted upon a rich chestnut brown horse. Further riders continue into the landscape, while a pack of hounds can be seen running across the open field to the left. Additional mounted figures recede towards the distant tree line. The expansive landscape is painted beneath a beautifully atmospheric blue and grey sky, with softly developed clouds, distant trees and warmly coloured countryside. The contrasting white horse, red riding coat and dark horse create a particularly effective central focus. Oil on canvas. The painting is presented in an impressive decorative swept gilt frame. This is an especially attractive example of Thomas Smythe's interest in landscape, ani...
