Description

Henry Silkstone Hopwood (1860-1914) was born at Markfield near Leicester and studied at Manchester School of Art, as well as training with a firm of lithographers. He travelled the world as a deckhand on a tall ship where he produced many on board studies. His work is very diverse including interior and exterior scenes, studies of wildlife including ducks and farm animals. He was taught by Bouguereau in Paris where he spent many summers and made friends with other artists from the Staithe Group. During the Winter months they migrated to Spence Ingall's house in North Africa. "The Blacksmith's Shop" is a watercolour measuring 14"x 16". It is signed lower right and is framed giving an overall size of 20"x 22".
