Description

Early 20th Century English Gothic Revival Floor Lamp A striking English Gothic Revival floor lamp dating to circa 1910, combining rich period character with elegant architectural detailing. The lamp stands on a substantial stepped hardwood base, supporting a finely fluted bronze stem with decorative Gothic-inspired detailing. It is finished with an opaline glass shade, whose soft translucency provides a pleasing contrast to the naturally aged bronze and timber. With its impressive proportions and beautifully developed patina, this is a highly decorative period lighting piece, equally suited to a traditional interior or as a statement feature within a more contemporary setting. Dimensions Height: 66.5" / 168 cm Width: 16" / 40 cm Depth: 16" / 40 cm Details Date: Circa 1910 Origin: United Kingdom Maker: Unknown Materials: Bronze, hardwood and opaline glass Condition: Fair, with age-related wear and patination Weight: Approximately 10 kg overall Construction: Removable glass shade Condition Report Presented in naturally aged condition, consistent with its period and use.
