Description

Antique 20th century fine quality Dutch display cabinet in walnut, an exceptional and highly decorative piece displaying remarkable quality and attention to detail throughout. Very well made and of the finest quality, this magnificent cabinet has a commanding presence and is a particularly rare and desirable example that truly has to be seen in person to be fully appreciated. The upper section is beautifully glazed with a pair of doors opening to reveal three spacious internal shelves, providing an impressive display area for fine china, glassware, collectibles or treasured decorative pieces. Beneath are three generously sized drawers, all retaining their original decorative brass handles and providing useful additional storage. For ease of transport and installation, the cabinet separates neatly into two sections. The walnut is undoubtedly one of the highlights of the piece, displaying breathtaking grain, rich colour and stunning figuring throughout. Beautifully carved decoration further enhances the cabinet, with an immense level of attention to detail visible across the entire design. Raised on highly decorative claw and ball feet, the cabinet has an elegant and impo...
