Description

Antique 18th century Georgian cabinet in mahogany, a charming and beautifully proportioned piece that displays the understated elegance and timeless character associated with Georgian furniture. Very well made and of good quality, this handsome cabinet offers a wonderful combination of open display space and practical storage within a particularly desirable size. The interior is beautifully arranged with two open shelves, providing an ideal space for displaying books, china, glassware or decorative pieces. Beneath are two useful drawers offering additional concealed storage. Raised on elegant tapered legs, the cabinet has a light and refined appearance that complements its classic Georgian proportions. The mahogany displays gorgeous natural grain and a rich, warm colour throughout, with the beautifully matured timber giving the piece tremendous depth and character. Its attractive proportions, quality construction and versatile size make this a particularly desirable example that would sit comfortably within both period and contemporary interiors. Presented in good condition, with some historic woodworm holes visible to the back panels, which have been treated and are no...
